LIGHT VOTE CAST IN TOWNSHIP ELECTION

B. F. Naber, for Supervisor, Was Only Candidate—Gravel Tax Proposition Carries.

The annual town election in Antioch, Tuesday was a very simple and tame affair, and a very light vote was polled. Failure of so many voters to visit the polls is accounted for by the fact that there was no contest for office, B. F. Naber for supervisor being the only candidate. Mr. Naber received 79 votes in the first precinct and 40 in precinct two, a total of 119 in the township. A total of 83 votes were cast in precinct No. 1 and 47 in precinct No. 2.

Gravel Tax Carries 9 to 1.

That a large majority of Antioch voters favor good roads was shown when a count of the ballot revealed the fact that the gravel tax proposition had carried over 9 to 1, 110 voting for the measure and 12 opposing it. The proposition provides for a special gravel tax of 36 cents on each $100 assessed valuation in the town for three years to be applied on the county highways known as the Minto road, the Pierce and Webb road and the Bohm road.

Contests in Five Towns.

While election boards in Antioch were enjoying a quiet day, contests were being waged in five townships, including Waukegan, Benton, Shields, Newport and Round Lake. While very spirited rivalry has been reported the contests in the various towns have been practically free of mudslinging, and in nearly every case the candidates have conducted their campaigns solely upon their qualifications for office.

Re-Elect 13 Supervisors.

Thirteen members of the board of supervisors of Lake county were re-elected Tuesday while three of the present incumbents were defeated. The losers were veterans in the county board, Supervisor, Geo. Hirstow, Assistant Supervisor David A. Hutton, of Waukegan township and Supervisor Edward Martin, of Newport township. Hutton and Martin were on the board for the past 12 years. Hirstow also served a similar period, but his reign was interrupted, the poor-master of Waukegan township having been defeated in 1923 and then returned to office in 1925.

Two to Seek Chairmanship.

It is reported that Matt. P. Dilger, assistant supervisor who defeated Hirstow, Tuesday, may be a candidate for county chairman. Another candidate for the chairmanship is Bert C. Thompson, of Benton, who was re-elected.

High School Chorus Pleases

A large crowd greeted the High School Chorus last Sunday evening, when they appeared at the Methodist church to sing at the Victory Service planned for the high school students who played such a large part in placing Antioch High School near the top of the list, of successful high schools of the district, competing in the athletic and scholastic contests.

The chorus of twenty-eight voices, under the direction of Miss Helen Bauck, sang most beautifully and was greatly appreciated. Miss Lilah Hawkins, who won second place in the public speaking contest at Elgin last week, was loudly applauded, having given her oration, "The Savior of Men."

The church was transformed into a beautiful garden by flowers furnished by Mr. Pollock who presented the students each with a red carnation at the close of the evening service. The singing of Mr. Hugh Aspinwall brought forth much favorable comment. Mr. Aspinwall is well known in radio circles but to have heard him in person was a treat.

Rev. A. M. Krahl delivered the sermon, centering his thinking around "Youth," carrying out the spirit of the service.

Antioch Churches Join in Good Friday Service

April 15th, is the date of Good Friday and from the most ancient times has been a day of remembrance for Christian people the world over.

At 12:10 on that day the Christian people of the community are invited to attend a great open air service of commemoration in honor of Christ.

The service will be in the church yard of St. Ignatius' church. The Rev. Krahl will give the address, "The Meaning of The Cross." There will be community hymn singing led by the vested choir and a sacred selection by the choir of the Methodist church.

At the conclusion of the service a replica of the original Cross will be raised to witness forever the supreme sacrifice of Love. It is hoped that the community will enter into the sacred spirit of the occasion and participate. The grade school and the high school will not hold classes on that day.

CLEANING AND DYEING PLANT FOR CROSS LAKE

Another industry for this locality is to begin business within the next few days. The Moon Cleaners and Dyers, a concern headed by David Morris, are coming to Cross Lake, having for their headquarters the Morris Building which is being adapted to meet the requirements of the business.

The establishment will do cleaning, pressing and dyeing. Mr. Morris operates two similar places of business in Chicago, on Touey avenue and Buena avenue. John Trusch, of Chicago, a man of over twenty years experience in the cleaning, pressing and tailoring business, will have charge of the plant at Cross Lake.

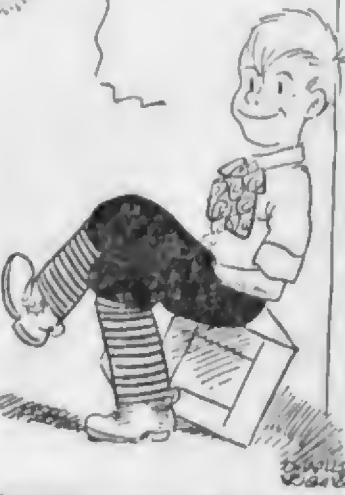

REBEKAHS INITIATE TWO

The regular monthly meeting of Lakeside Rebekah lodge was held at the Woodman hall on Friday evening. Mrs. Charles Stearns and little daughter Eleanor, of Waukegan, were guests, of Antioch relatives and friends on Monday and Tuesday.

FINAL HEARING AT WAUKEGAN SATURDAY

Final hearing on the proposed paving of Antioch streets, including Lake, Victoria and Harden, will be held in the county court room at Waukegan, Saturday, April 9, at 10 o'clock a. m.

A special meeting of the village board of trustees has been called for Monday night, April 11, to consider the proposition of advertising for bids, should the matter be approved by the court at the hearing Saturday.

To Elect School Directors Saturday

Two important elections are scheduled for Saturday of this week, April 9—the grade school election and also election for the Antioch township high school district.

On the grade school board three are to be elected, a president and two board members. The candidates are S. E. Pollock for president and Mrs. Edna Warriner and Mrs. Ethel Pesat for directors. The two first named are present members of the board while Mrs. Pesat is a candidate for the first time this year. Mrs. Alvers, whose term expires this spring, declined to be a candidate for re-election.

The voting is to be done at the grade school building from 2 to 4 p. m.

Two to Elect at High School.
At the same hours, 2 to 4, the voting for two members of the high school board of education will take place at the high school building. President A. N. Tiffany is candidate for re-election, and George White is candidate for board member to succeed the late John A. Thain. It is generally understood that candidates are elected as board members and the selection of a president is left to the board at the organization meeting following the election. In other words, the president of the high school board is not elected by popular vote, as is the case in the grade school election.

GOOD AUTOIST GETS EMBLEM

Drivers Who Haven't Been Arrested or in Accident Will Get White Stars

Have you ever been in an automobile accident, arrested for speeding, reckless driving or driving while drunk? Have you ever been tangled up with the police division?

If not—you are entitled to one of the white star emblems being distributed by the International Association of Automobile Traffic Officers.

If you are one of the lucky ones and have not received your star as yet, write to 329 Skinner Building, Seattle, Washington, giving your name, address and your age.

Jack Howell, Executive Secretary of the association says that the purpose of the association in issuing these emblems is to establish a better understanding between the motorist, the pedestrian, the traffic officer and the judge.

Bertha M. Burnette, of Lake Villa, Ill., had the honor of being the first (one of the first) in this community to receive the emblem.

Mr. Howell says, "This is a national enterprise and there are hundreds of thousands of these Good Conduct Emblems to be distributed to careful motorists throughout the United States."

PETE LAURSEN TAKEN TO HOSPITAL

Miss Anna E. Campbell returned to her home here after visiting relatives and friends in Chicago and Oak Park the last two weeks.

Miss Caroline Spitzer, of Antioch, spent Sunday at the home of her aunt, Mrs. Otto Hanke.

Thompson Is Victor by Over 80,000

"Big Bill" Returns From Political Oblivion to Become Third Time Mayor of Chicago.

"Big Bill" Thompson, erstwhile political outcast, has returned to power by being elected third time mayor of Chicago, Tuesday over William E. Dever, his nearest rival by a margin of over 83,000 votes. Dr. John Robertson, independent candidate, was third in the running.

After serving two terms as Chicago's mayor, "Big Bill" got into disrepute through his war time activities and was bitterly criticised, being frequently referred to as "Kaiser Bill." Four years ago he was an outcast from his own party. His return to power in one of the most hectic campaigns ever known in Chicago is remarkable, and has proved the uncertainty of politics.

L. S. BONNER TO HEAD MILLBURN MUTUAL

Former Treasurer, Prominent Farmer, to Succeed the Late John A. Thain as Insurance Company President.

Leslie S. Bonner, prominent farmer, of Millburn, was elected Saturday to succeed the late John A. Thain as president of the Millburn Mutual Insurance company. Mr. Thain's death occurred March 18. He had been the company's president for four years.

Mr. Bonner was formerly treasurer of the Millburn company and also collector. For the past seven years he has been clerk of the board of directors of the consolidated school district at Millburn. That Mr. Bonner is capable of performing the duties of the office to which he has been elected is attested by the fact that he was the unanimous choice of the directors.

FULL VOTE EXPECTED AT VILLAGE ELECTION

Twelve Candidates Out for Village Offices—Six to Be Elected—Large Vote Predicted.

A large vote will be polled in Antioch at the annual village election on Tuesday, April 19, in the opinion of those who have seen many a hard fought contest for village offices. Village Clerk Harry A. Isaacs, over a stickler for law and order, also accuracy, has anticipated an extra large vote at the forth-coming election and has placed his order for what he deems a sufficient number of ballots.

Campaign Issues Quiet.

So far as the issues of the present campaign are concerned, things have been very quiet, at least on the surface, and it is not yet known just what arguments are to be presented to the voters as favoring either set of candidates. That there are issues is not denied by any with whom the writer has talked. Holding office in a town is not a very desirable job at best, and it is not thought any candidate would ever seek a place on the board of trustees merely because he wanted to hold office. Many of the candidates, perhaps all of them, are far-seeing citizens who have visions of a greater and better Antioch and are willing to stand grief incident to office holding that they may serve the best interests of the village.

"The village board needs co-operation, not censure," said a Main street business man who expressed hope for the election of a board that would work in harmony for the best interests of the town.

The Candidates.

People's Ticket—President, S. E. Pollock; trustees, G. W. Jensen, N. E. Sibley, W. J. Christian, and H. J. Vos (to fill vacancy); treasurer, W. F. Ziegler.

Independent Ticket—President, C. F. Richards; trustees, Frank Dunn, Jacob Drom, R. A. Shults, and J. R. Cribb (to fill vacancy); treasurer, Mrs. Leonela Stephenson.

LET US BAND TOGETHER

Many voters exercise their franchise in terms of personalities and completely overlook the various propositions that come up for vote from time to time. This is natural, in a way, because candidates present themselves as real flesh and blood issues, while proposals seem to mean no more than so many pieces of paper whereon one may scratch his "yes" or "no." Yet, proposals are frequently the most important questions in an election.

The municipal band proposal, calling for a two-mill levy for concerts by the town band, is a case in point. There is nothing that so stamps a community, sets it apart from its less progressive neighbors, than the manner in which and the degree to which it carries out the idea of recreation. We need to think that a community had done enough in that direction if it converted a plot of ground into a playground for children. Now, we provide for the play hours of our adults also. A municipally-supported band serves the double purpose of providing both recreation and instruction for those of us who are musically inclined; and for those who are not, it gives varied progress of good music that everyone may enjoy.

Every citizen who has the welfare of this community at heart will go to the polls on April 19th, and while in the voting booth, give the municipal band matter thought and action.

FIREMEN CALLED TO LAKE VILLA MONDAY

The Antioch fire department answered a call to the E. J. Lehman farm, Lake Villa, shortly before noon Wednesday, when a flaming straw stack threatened damage to nearby buildings. Due to the recent rains the firemen found a plentiful water supply near the scene of the fire and the flames were soon extinguished. There was no damage except the loss of the straw stack.

Mrs. Lenora Hughes was a Waukegan visitor on Wednesday.

The LEADING LADY

by GERALDINE BONNER

COPYRIGHT BY THE BOBBY McPHERSON CO.

PROLOGUE—While dependent over the enforced hiding of her face, Jim Dallas, player in self defense of Homer Parkinson, member of an influential family, Sybil Saunders, popular actress engaged to play Viola in a charity performance of "Twelfth Night" on Gull Island, on the Maine coast. In the company are Sybil's bosom friend, Anne Tracy, Anne's brother Joe, young waitress, and Alvek Stokes, an actor infatuated with Sybil.

CHAPTER I—After the play, which is a big hit, Wally Shine, official photographer, learns something of the jealousy existing in the company.

CHAPTER II—Hugh Bassett, director of the play, and Anne Tracy's fiance, tells Joe he has heard he is spying on Sybil in an effort to learn the whereabouts of Jim Dallas, and earn the reward offered by the Parkinson family. The boy denies it.

CHAPTER III—Joe Tracy is arranging for a vacation trip. To Anne he betrays his enmity toward Sybil. Stokes tells Sybil he has news of Jim Dallas, and to secure privacy they arrange to meet in a small town house.

CHAPTER IV—The sound of a pistol shot startles the assembled company. Investigation shows a revolver has been taken from a desk in the library. Flora, Stokes' wife, bursts in with the announcement that Sybil has been shot and her body carried off by the tide.

CHAPTER V—Flora Stokes tells Bassett she saw Sybil shot but did not see her murderer. Bassett notices the sheriff, Abel Williams. He arrives with Rawson, district attorney, and a man called Patrick. All the company is accounted for, with the exception of Joe Tracy, presumably on his trip. Flora gives her evidence, and the authorities arrange so that no one can leave the island.

CHAPTER VI—Discussing the tragedy with Rawson and Bassett, Williams voices the opinion that Flora Stokes is the guilty person, the deed being actuated by jealousy. While they are talking, the sound of a crash in the living room makes them hasten there.

CHAPTER VII—Anne Tracy, shocked at her friend's awful death, also uneasy about Joe. Remembering also money about Joe. Remembering she is not sure he left the island, her imagination pictures him as Sybil's murderer, and hiding in the house, the upper story of which is unoccupied. Seeking him to inform him of the close watch kept, she descends to the living room. There she dully sees Joe and warns him not to try to escape. He disappears and in her agitation she knocks over a lamp. She tells the three men she came downstairs for a book, and her explanation is accepted.

CHAPTER VIII—In the summer house evidence is found that Sybil had been there, and knowing of Stokes' infatuation, Rawson suspects him.

CHAPTER IX—Stokes denies all knowledge of the crime, and deftly throws suspicion on Joe. Rawson, somewhat impressed, goes to the mainland to investigate Joe's movements.

CHAPTER X

To the outside eye Anne had presented no more doubts and dejected an aspect than any of the others. No one, not even Bassett, noticed that her demeanor was in any way other than what might have been expected.

Had they been able to see into her mind the group at Gull Island would have realized its second staggering shock.

She kept as much to herself as she could without rousing curiosity. She ran to think and to be alone where she would focus her thoughts, hold them trained on what she knew and what might develop. She wanted to keep her mind on the main issue, in spite of fruitless speculations, what was to be done. Joe was on the island and with the guarded care would stay on the island till after they had gone. Her hope, giving her strength to go through the automatic actions of behavior, was that suspicion not being directed to him, he could be hidden till they left and then make his getaway. She knew that Gabriel had gone to Willie Beach for a week's despatch fishing, and Gabriel was the one person besides herself who knew that Joe had not crossed to the mainland. They surely would be moved away before a week and if, during that time, the belief that he had gone remained unshaken, he was safe.

So far she was confident that no suspicion had touched him. She did not see how it could. They were all satisfied that he had left, her answer to Rawson had been accepted in good faith. There would be no investigation of his movements for there would be no reason for doing it. He had passed outside the circle of the tragedy, was eliminated as the actors were who had gone on the earlier boat.

If they didn't find him!

Where was he? He had entered the living room by the door that led to the kitchen wing and rear staircase. That would look as if he was in the house. But she knew that no doors were locked on Gull Island and that he might have come from outside, choosing a passage through the darkened building rather than expose himself to the moonlight. If he was in the house he must be in the vacant top story and she was certain—every sound of heavy footsteps had been noted by her listening ears—that the men had not been there yet. That would argue that they felt no need of hurry. What conclusions were they

She checked these disintegrating surmises, drew her mind back with a fierce tug of will. That would come later. If Joe got away she would tell, confess it all, go to jail. It didn't matter, what happened then. Only what was here before her counted now.

When the search of the island started she went up to the side of the gallery that skirted the line of windows. The group of men came into her line of vision, moving across the flat land between the house and the ocean. She sat crouched, watching with set jaw. Presently they dropped over the edges of the cliffs, then in articulate surges of prayer rose in her blind pleadings; and her hands clasped against her breast, she rocked back and forth as if in unspeakable pain. But they always reappeared without him, went down again, came up, scrambling through the stony mouths of ravines—always without him. When they returned to the house, she felt back in the chair, her eyes closed, whispering broken words of thanksgiving.

With her breath and her voice under control she went downstairs. She knew now that he must be in the house.

After lunch she drifted out on the balcony with the others and from there saw Bassett and the two officers of the law go down the path to the pine grove. Following Sybil's movements on the Point—that would take them some time. Mrs. Cornell said she was going to the kitchen to help Miss Plunkney (if it wasn't for that work she thought she'd go crazy), and she advised Anne to go upstairs and lie down.

"You look like the wrath of God, honey," she said, hooking her hand through Anne's arm and drawing her with her. "You can't sleep, no one expects that of you. But stretch out on the bed and relax—you got some sort of rest that way."

Anne went with her, Mrs. Cornell's step dropping to a crawling pace as they crossed the living room, her arm drawing Anne closer, her hearty voice dwindling to a whisper:

"Do you know anything?"

"No, how should I? Do you think they have any one in mind?"

"They have two, dearie, as we all have." They had reached the door and she quoted it wistfully. "And one moment I'm thinking it's one and the next moment I'm thinking it's the other and the third moment I'm thinking it's neither of them."

They passed through the doorway and went down the hall, stopping at the foot of the stairs. Mrs. Cornell offered a last consoling word:

"You can be thankful for one thing, Anne, Joe's not being here."

"Joe?"

"Oh, I'm not saying he had any thing to do with it. But those cases you read about them in the papers. Every little thing turned up. And she and Joe having been at loggerheads they'd be plotting on that—not telling you anything, sending up your blood pressure with their questions. You're spared that and it's worth keeping your mind on. Nothing so bad but what it might be worse."

She went on down the hall. Anne, on the stairs, waited till she heard the sound of the opening door and Miss Plunkney's welcoming voice, then she stole upward very softly. She did not go to her room as Mrs. Cornell had advised, but slipped to the end of the hall where the staircase led to the top story.

She ascended with delicate carefulness, letting her weight come gradually on each step. Despite her precautions the boards creaked. The sounds seemed portentously loud in the deep quiet and she stopped for the silence to absorb them, and then, with chary foot, went on. At the top she stood, subduing her deep-drawn breaths, looking, listening.

The middle of the floor was occupied by a spacious central hall furnished as a parlor and lit by a skylight. Giving on it were numerous small bedrooms, the doors open. The strings of the curtains, billowing out and drooping, were the only movements in the place. She moved to the middle of the room and sent her voice out in a whisper:

"Joe, Joe—are you here? It's Anne."

Her ears were strained for an answering whisper, her eyes swept about for a shape creeping into view, but the silence was unbroken, the emptiness undisturbed. She entered the room, peered about, opened cupboards, looked for signs of occupation. Again nothing—vacancy, dust in a film on the bureau tops, beds untouched in meticulous smoothness.

One door was closed, near the staircase. Opening this she looked into a storeroom, a large, dark interior lit by two small windows. They were dust-grimed, and the light came in dimly, showing upturned trunks and boxes, pieces of furniture, lines of clothes hanging on the walls.

"Here," she thought, and with her heart leaping in her throat, crossed the threshold:

"Joe, it's Anne. I've come to help you."

Nothing stirred in the unoccupied space, no stealthy body detached itself from the shadows.

"Oh, answer me if you're there!" Her voice rose the shade of a tone. It came back from the rafters, roof in smothered supplication; the silence it had severed closed again, deep and secretive.

She feared to stay longer and slipped, wraithlike, down the stairs. In her room she sat down and considered. The must have been there. Where else could he be unless in one of the unoccupied apartments in the lower floors. But he hardly would have dared that with people coming and going. He had been afraid, doubted her as he had always done, or possibly found a hiding place too shut away for her whisper to penetrate. Tonight she would have to get food to him, take it up when the men were in the library and the others safe in their rooms.

She could do nothing more and went downstairs in the hope of seeing Bassett. Since morning she had lingered for a word with him. Not that she had any idea of telling him, the direful secret was hers alone to be confessed later on some awful day of reckoning and retribution. But she wanted to see him, get courage from his presence, feel the solace of his arm about her. She was so lonely with her intolerable burden.

The living room was empty, but listening at the hall door she heard the murmur of men's voices in the library. They were in conference again and might be long. She passed out into the garden and sank down on one of the benches. The breeze moved among the flowers and sent shivers down the great wisteria vine trained up the house wall and ascend ing to the chimneys. She looked at it, its drooping foliage, stirred by a quivering breeze, showing the fibrous branches intertwined like ropes—an old vine such as city dwellers seldom see.

"I Thought I Was Never Going to Get a Word With You," He Said.

There were clouds in the sky, hurrying white masses driving inland and carrying the breath of fog. They had blotted out the sun and were sweeping their torn edges over the blue. If they kept on it would be dark tonight—no moon—but there was the man at the casement.

She sat with drooped head immersed in thought, her hands thrust into the pockets of her sweater. It was thus that Bassett found her. Life leaped into her face at his voice and she stretched a hand toward him.

"Oh, I've been hoping to see you," she breathed, already trained to a low wariness of tone.

The words, the gesture, pierced his heart. She looked so disconsolate, so wan, her face the pallor of ivory, her black hair always shining smooth, pushed back from her brow in roughened strands. He had charged himself to keep from her any knowledge of the interest in Joe, but had he been of the loose-tongued sort that undermined itself, the sight of her devastated beauty would have sealed his lips.

"I thought I was never going to get a word with you," he said. "This is the first moment I've had. How are you?"

She asserted her well-being, and he studied her face with anxious eyes.

"Dear Anne," he murmured, and lifting her hand, pressed it to his lips. The two hands remained together, the woman's upturned inside the man's enveloping grasp.

"That faint feeling last night, I suppose that will bleach you out for a while?"

"Oh, I'm all over that. It was a crazy thing for me to do, going down and then knocking the lamp over. They didn't think anything of it, did they?"

"Anything of it? Why no, what would they think? You explained it to them and they were satisfied with what you said. And afterward I told Williams that he could absolutely trust your word."

"I gave a great deal of trouble and—"

"Her voice was husky and she cleared her throat. After a moment she went on:

"I suppose you can't tell me anything—anything of what they're doing."

NASH

Leads the World in Motor Car Value

How many main bearings in your motor car? Nash recommends 7

Because for the finest and smoothest performance results, you need 7, rather than 3 or 4.

Obviously, 3 or 4 supports for a crankshaft cannot give it the rigidity and smoothness of 7. That is why Nash—with customary engineering progressiveness—has developed the 7-bearing motor for all Nash models.

The 7 bearings of Nash achieve power-smoothness and quietness, and achieve it, moreover, with no sacrifice of acceleration. In fact, the proper support of the crankshaft decidedly improves the energy and aggressiveness of the car.

Here is another fact to remember about the 7 bearings of Nash: They have more bearing surface, by actual measurement, than any 6-cylinder engine of similar size and price, no matter how many bearings it has. (Actually 20 square inches more than leading cars with fewer bearings.)

When you buy your 1927 motor car be sure to ask: "How many main bearings?" And for better results choose the car that has 7. Nash offers you this performance-advantage in every single model, whether you pay $2090 for it or only $863.

Methodist Notes

To spend Sunday evening at the Methodist church is quite the proper thing to do these days as the programs of service surpasses anything in town. Last Sunday evening was an exceptionally good program offered. The high school chorus sang most wonderful, Lillah Hawkins oration was well done. She had a real message with note for the present day. Mr. Hugh Aspinwall the famous tenor singer appeared in person and sang several selections. As for the sermon by Rev. Krali no reference need be made.

Next Sunday evening a very special number, in keeping with Palm Sunday, will be given by Mrs. L. R.
Watson. She will read Florence
Morse Kingley's great masterpiece,
"The Man who opened Eyes." Special music will argument her reading.

The church was fortunate in securing the services of the Combined Arlington-Palatine Chorus, about 55 voices to sing Maunder's "Olivet to Calvary" on the evening of Wednesday, April 20. When Antioch has given the opportunity to hear such music every effort should be made to be present. There will be no admission but an offering will be lited to defray expenses.

Miss Helen Keller will be in Antioch and present "Enoch Arden" on the evening of April 21. A royal welcome is extended to all to attend these services.

Unfortunate City

The city of Hankow has nearly always suffered severely at times of internal disorders in China, owing to its strategic location at the junction of the Yangtze river and the Yangtze

more than two-thirds of the city was destroyed by fire, as a result of bom-

DIKES AS BAR TO MOSQUITO PESTS

Engineer Says Marshes Can Be Turned Into Farms.

Atlantic City, N. J.—The peaceful, benevolent, milk-giving Jersey cow
will replace the vicious, malicious, blood-sucking New Jersey mosquito in the now largely useless "mosquito country," according to William T.
Donnelly, New York engineer, who addressed the New Jersey Mosquito Extermination association at its annual meeting here. Englewood, declared Mr. Donnelly, can turn the trick, and make rich agricultural land out of all the marshy territory that now breeds only biting pests.

He proposes to turn the edge of New Jersey into a sort of American Holland. The marshy strip is wet and pestiferous now mainly because of the periodic invasion of the highest sea tides and if these could be stopped by a great dike sweeping along the whole coast, with suitable cross dikes running back from it to subdivide the land, the impounded country could be elevated of its water at relatively small expense. The mosquito pools would then disappear and the now semi-inundated land, which is naturally very rich, would become a great garden and dairy region to supply the great industrial cities that lie in a ring around New Jersey.

The main dike which he proposes could be constructed in such a way as to serve a triple end, Mr. Donnelly declared. It could be thrown up by means of a giant dredge, which would work along in a channel of its own making on the seaward side of the embankment. The top of the dike could serve as a highway for motor transport, and the channel could be given permanent form as a canal for slower and cheaper water-borne traffic.
The cost of the undertaking need not be prohibitive, he claimed, pointing to the examples of Egypt, China and Holland, which have succeeded in similar works with much more primitive means than are at the command of present day engineering.

Posing as Idiot, Russian Commits 1,000 Robberies

Nyitra, Czechoslovakia.—One thousand successful burglaries in less than six years, or an average of more than three each week, is the record of Ivan Barilov, a Russian emigre, who has just begun a year's jail sentence
here.

Barilov's method was unique. He pretended to be an idiot who had lost his mind, due to hardships inflicted on him by the Bolsheviks before he was able to flee from Russia. He would never discuss any other question except communism, the tcheka,
and "the Russian murderers."

For this reason he was looked upon as a harmless lunatic by every one who lived in the various villages in which he pilloled his trade. No one ever once thought of associating him with burglaries, although they occurred in rapid succession, sometimes

Solon Would Legislate to Fix Size of Biscuits

Topeka, Kans.—The Oklahoma legislators appear to have gone Kansas one better in the matter of culinary reform.

An Oklahoma man wants to regulate the size of biscuits, fixing their width at three inches. A copy of a bill setting forth a reform in the size of biscuits was received recently from Oklahoma City. Kansas was urged to join in the uplift movement.
If the three-inch-wide biscuit reform is good enough for Oklahoma, the sponsors of the bill believe that Kansas ought to try it out.

Senator James W. Finley of Oklahoma, who recently championed the abolition of income tax, has been asked to study the Oklahoma biscuit reform
bill and make a report.

Dewberry, Long Lost to Horticulture, Rediscovered

Washington.—A new dewberry, lost to the horticulture world since its origin in 1895, has just been rediscovered by the Agriculture department and recommended to farmers for trial.

The dewberry is called "Young"
for its originator, R. M. Young of Louisiana, and bears fruit larger than the popular Luerella variety, is much sweeter than the Logan and of an exceptional high dessert quality, the department said.

Soft and climate in southern and southeastern states is adapted for raising this berry, which is an attractive deep wine color, according to the department.

Church, Then Pool Hall, Turns to Church Again

Junction City, Kan.—Erected in 1868, and used as a church, later turned into a school and then a pool hall and now back to a church again
is the record of the Methodist Episcopal church at Milford, which recently came into its own again.

Many years ago the congregation was disbanded and the church was used for a time as a school building.
Later it was turned into a pool hall but several months ago the work of reorganization was begun and the congregation, including some of those who worshiped 50 years ago, is again attending services there.

Date Arranged for Women's Golf Event

The date of the first tournament of the newly organized Women's Trans-Mississippi Golf association has been fixed as the week of June 13. It has been announced by Mrs. Charles Hornum, secretary of the organization.

The date selected by the women's association corresponds to the date of the men's state tournament, to be played over the Meadow Lake course, giving Kansas City two tournaments
the same week, both lasting throughout the week.

J. MCGRAW STILL LEADS MANAGERS

Miller Huggins Has Now Won His Fourth Flag.

Although the Giants have failed to finish in first place for the past two seasons, John McGraw is still far in front among the pennant-winning managers of the two major leagues.

The New York leader heads the list of those who have won the major league championship from 1900 to 1926, inclusive, with a total of ten.
He led the Giants home first in the National league races of 1903, 1905, 1911, 1912, 1913, 1917, 1921, 1922, 1923
and 1924.

Connie Mack of the Athletics is first in the American league and second in the two major leagues with a total of six pennants. As a result of the victories of the Yankees last year Miller Huggins has won his fourth pennant. He is now one of the five major league leaders who have won more than three championships. He is second to Connie Mack in the American league and he is tied for third place in the combined list of the two major leagues with Frank Chance of the Cubs and Fred Clarke of the Pirates.
These two are tied for second place in the National league list with four pennants each.

The only other National league managers who have won more than one pennant are Wilbert Robinson and Pat Moran. Robinson led the Robins to the championship in 1916 and 1920.
Moran brought the Phillies home first in 1935 and the Reds in 1919. He is the only manager on the list who has won pennants with two different clubs.

Following Mack and Huggins on the American league list comes Hughie Jennings, who won three pennants with the Tigers. Four managers are tied at two pennants each. They are Clark Griffith of the White Sox, Bill Carrigan of the Red Sox, Jimmy Collins of the Red Sox and Stanley Harris of Washington.

The list of pennant-winning managers follows:

Middle Crown Does Not Enrich Mickey Walker

Mickey Walker, who won the middleweight title from Tiger Flowers
last December through a wild decision, does not seem to be cashing in very heavily through possession of that crown.

After Walker became boss of the 160 pounders, Jack Kearns promptly announced that Mickey would battle any man in the world "for $200,000."
When promoters nearly died laughing
at the Kearns joke, Jack cut the price to $100,000—and the effect has been the same.

Kearns agreed that if Walker won
he would give Flowers a return battle on or before March 3. That date has passed and the match has not been made.

Wins Texas Classic

An unusual action picture of Jack Neville of Los Angeles, who defeated George Von Elm, also of Los Angeles, and national amateur champion, at the Houston Country club annual golf championship finals. This is the second time in 13 years that a visiting golfer has captured the club trophy.

Smile of Satisfaction

Tampa, Fla. It seems by his smile that he is satisfied with his new teammates.

Emil Meusel to Be With Dodgers in 1927 Season

Emil Meusel, slugging outfielder who purchased his release from the New York Giants last summer, will park
his glove in the Brooklyn outer gardens this year.

The controversy arising out of conflicting claims of the Dodgers and Cincinnati Reds was settled when Manager Jack Hendricks announced he had waived all claim on Meusel's services.
Hendricks said he had learned that his bid for Meusel followed that of Wilbert Robinson, president of the Brooklyn club.

Both managements announced at most simultaneously that Emil, brother of Bob, Yankee star, had accepted terms for 1927. Robinson said Meusel had signed the Dodger contract calling for a $10,000 salary.

"We were too late and I am sorry," Hendricks said. "We had accepted terms, but waited too long to close the deal, and Robbie came along and took the player before we knew what it was all about."

Rainy Region

The region having the greatest annual rainfall is located in the northeastern part of India, near Calcutta.
It is more than 600 inches a year.

Sporting Squibs

There is probably still $50,000 worth of baseball in Ty, if not more.

Australia has definitely decided not to enter the Davis cup competition
this year.

Mr. Tunney is champion all right, but nobody can say that he is extremely combative.

A little oil used on a golf ball will keep the mud from sticking to it while playing over a muddy course.

The English tour made by Australia's all star cricket team has netted a profit of about $100,000.

Suzanne Lenglen, the tennis star, is now Princess Sparkling Waters. She was adopted into the Pueblo tribe.

Daniel E. Alper of Brookline, Mass., has been elected captain of the Brown university freshman wrestling team.

Ty Cobb will play for all he is worth for the Athletics. There isn't any other system in the Connie Mack regime.

The Williamsport club of the New York-Pennsylvania league, has obtained John Pasquella to play first base.

Roy Leslie, first baseman for Hollywood for three seasons, has been sold to the San Antonio club of the Texas league.

Station WMAQ, Chicago, will broadcast all the home games of the White Sox and Cubs baseball teams the coming season.

R. A. Seed, aged eighty-one, state treasurer of Oklahoma, plans to take up golf at ninety, when he "begins to get old."

Fifteen sports are engaged in at Harvard, 14 of these depending chiefly upon the gate receipts of one to support them.

The Victoria cricket team in Australia is the only team which has competition, recently totaling 1,107 against New South Wales.

Jack Blair, thirteen-year-old first baseman of West Palm Beach, Fla., has been signed for a trial with the Washington club.

Russian Peasant Tales

"Skazki" is a Russian word which may be translated best, perhaps, by "wonder tales." They are a combination of fairy tales and mythology with an intermingling of Christian doctrine. "Skazki" is the plural form,
"skazka" being the singular.

With the carrying away of the wheelhouse at the Wilmot mill during the high water, the Fox River has changed its course and the entire volume of water instead of passing over the dam has cut a new channel through the bed of the old mill race. Aside from carrying away a considerable amount of the banks back of the Wisconsin Gas buildings no damage has been done or is anticipated.

Union Free High School

Baseball practice is being held for the first time this week, and judging by early interest in the game, competition will be keen for places in the team. No man has yet won a place on the team, and the realization of this fact is making the men work harder. To find a capable catcher will be a task for the coach, as this was a big weakness in the team last year. Madden looks like the best for the position, but he has a poor arm. Runyard, Memler, Hutton, Letting, Juravlek, W. Madden and Richter are among those trying for infield positions. Shreck, McBeagall, Hagerty and others are outfielders. Schubert Frank is the only veteran pitcher, but if a new man can be found he will be shifted behind the bat.

A schedule of six or eight games is being arranged, which will be announced later.

Seniors are busy practicing the chess play, "Blow Your Own Horn" which promises to be highly successful. Miss Francis will have charge of the play, and will be assisted in the dramatic work by Miss Peterson. A committee of stage hands will be chosen from the students.

Some Action Needed to

Preserve Wild Turkey

The wild turkey is today fighting so to speak to hold his own, says the Sportsman State Game Commission. A T. Quinn of Alabama sums up the situation as follows: "Three things are absolutely necessary not only in the case of wild turkeys, but all other cases of wild life—namely, protection, education and legislation." Education of the masses, protection and feed for the birds and legislation for the states. "The trouble in retrograding states is that responsibility is today a shut book. It is up to the thinking hunters of these states to save the wild turkey. It is up to the press of these states to inform the public by a revelation of true conditions."

Bonesetter to Rest

Dr. John D. "Bonesetter" Reese of Youngstown, Ohio, is one of the most noted figures in baseball, but strange as it may seem, he gets his rest when the season is on, and works hardest when the baseball season is not in progress. Here is Doctor Reese leaving for Honolulu on the steamer "El" of Los Angeles, for a brief vacation.

"Dead Sea Apple"

The Apple of Sodom is a fruit described by ancient writers as externally of fair appearance, but dissolving into smoke and ashes when plucked—Dead Sea apple. The name is often given to the fruit of Solanum sodomense, a prickly shrub with fruit not unlike a small yellow tomato.

Question for Geese

Northwest Alabamian asks its readers a number of questions to test their intelligence, but omits one we have long wished to see answered: "Why do geese walk in a row?"—Guntersville (Ala.) Democrat.
